

I love you

When you love me back your little world will ignite with the crack of hot timber that will emanate like a flaming double bass from Detroit

and you will be a singing lute rescued from the fire.

Now tell me:
who loves you.

Burn for me.

james stone goodman